Join the thousands of successful organization that have recognized the benefits of credit union membership. It provides the advantage of cost effective, quality service and simple implementation.

Enhance Your Organizational Image

It is well known worldwide that credit unions are not-for-profit, cooperative financial institutions committed to offering high quality financial services to their members. Your credit union membership will reflect your organization's concern for its employees.

Access to Quality Financial Services

Access to credit union membership is one of the best benefits you can offer to your employees. Foothill Federal Credit Union is owned by its members, founded solely to meet their financial needs. Members are treated as owners and receive ownership benefits.

Foothill offers a wide range of competitive financial services with personalized approach. Surveys have consistently revealed that credit union members are satisfied with the service they receive from the credit unions than with other financial institutions.
